WATERLOO SCHOOLS ANNOUNCE CHANGE IN ORANGE PRINCIPALSHIP

WATERLOO—The Waterloo Community School District announced on Friday that Aaron Davidson, who had been offered the principalship at Orange Elementary School, has notified the District that he is unable, for family reasons, to accept a contract.

Taking the leadership position at Orange will be Teri Trask, currently the Director of Professional Development for the District for the last two years. Trask has wide experience in both education and the private sector in professional development and administration. She served as the principal of Reinbeck Elementary School and the Gladbrook and Reinbeck Elementary curriculum Director for 6 years. She was an adjunct instructor for the University of Northern Iowa, Wartburg College, and Viterbo College.

Trask began her career in elementary education as a teacher in grades 3-6 in Waterloo, Cedar Falls, and LaPorte Community School Districts. She was a first Vice President at Lincoln Savings Bank for five years and is a professional speaker/trainer in many topics including: leadership, accountability, team building, and customer service.

The Orange principal position will begin with the 2011-12 school year.
